MOCKUPWORLD

Mockup World is an online service that offers designers and web developers free access to several hundreds of ready to use mockups! The site is managed by André Vatter (Twitter @avatter), Social Median and Blogger from Hamburg, Germany.

Mockup World handpicks and presents the best photorealistic Photoshop mockups that designers and agencies worldwide have published online.

Each item is featured together with a preview image or gallery, a detailed description and a link that leads right to the download page. Visitors can use the directory to quickly navigate to the desired category of motive.

The mockups appear in the form of layered PSD files equipped with smart objects that allow users to quickly drag and drop their own content elements into the image: perfect for showcasing apps, websites, presentations, posters and billboards. Like all images the Mockup World directory is free of charge and only lists items that may be used for private and commercial purposes without any restrictions.

Hi Andre!

Well, there's a new trend in town: Ditch the static hero image on top of websites and insert a product video instead! We have been experimenting with mockup clips - and they just look and feel gorgeous and create an even more realistic, lively setting for any design.

Check out the quick demo video we've made:
